The Army Heritage Center Foundation Board of Directors and staff thank all who have assisted our efforts to expand the U.S. Army Heritage and Education Center (USAHEC) campus and its programs. While we have achieved much, we want to continue to build upon our success and grow the Center and its programs. We believe that the USAHEC staff and their efforts to “Tell the Army Story... one Soldier at a time” remain important to our Nation, to our Army, its Soldiers, and their families.

In Calendar Year 2012, two major efforts provided focus for the Foundation and the USAHEC staff. The first was the completion of the Foundation funded construction project that expanded the facility’s ability to host larger events and stage the campus for continued development. The Foundation, USAHEC, and Carlisle Barracks’ staffs partnered to ensure the project went smoothly. Construction was completed in December 2012, bringing the total value of federal, state, and private support for construction of the complex to more than $52 million. Thank you to all who have contributed to this project!

The second was USAHEC’s development and opening of the Soldier Experience Gallery. This exhibit draws heavily from the Center’s Veterans Survey Program and personalizes the experience of our Soldiers from the Spanish American War through our current operations. Both the USAHEC staff and Waldon Studios skillfully developed the exhibit that supports and engages visitors of all ages. Its opening this past November makes the campus unrivaled with its archives and research library, museum gallery, and educational programs that present the Army’s story to the public.

The proof of USAHEC’s growing popularity as a destination in support of telling the Army’s story is demonstrated by the growth of visitors. In 2012, USAHEC hosted more than 165,000 visitors, an increase of more than 23,000 from 2011. From its living history events and public programs to its archives and research library, the campus now draws its visitors from across the Nation and internationally. Recognizing this growth, this past month the Army confirmed that the vision for the USAHEC campus, that Secretary of the Army Thomas White announced in 2001, remains unchanged. The Army’s statement of need to the Foundation specifies that the Center continues to need an expanded Visitor and Education Center that will include an additional gallery, multipurpose rooms, and visitor support facilities. Additionally, construction of a “heritage center” that will provide additional galleries to tell the Army story through a variety of media remains a priority. With your help, we hope to be able to continue to grow the Center and enhance USAHEC’s ability to honor our Soldiers and educate and inform the public.

Help us build on our past successes. USAHEC is ideally suited as a venue to tell the Army Story - located near Gettysburg, the largest land battle in the United States, and only a day's drive for more than 50% of our Nation's population. Please consider visiting the Center if you have not already done so. If you are able, plan to attend one of the Foundation sponsored special events on the campus this June, July, or November. Details of upcoming programs are highlighted in the articles from the USAHEC Deputy Director, LTC Christopher Lelijedal, and the Foundation staff. Finally, consider a donation to the Foundation, so that we can continue our support to the Army and USAHEC's efforts to preserve and honor the memories of our Soldiers and their families.

Development Update

We want to begin by first thanking all of you for your support and generosity throughout 2012. Each of you played an integral role in the Foundation’s ability to enhance and promote the U.S. Army Heritage and Education Center (USAHEC) last year. With your help, USAHEC unveiled the Soldier Experience Gallery, hosted a record number of visitors, and even laid the groundwork for future expansion! You may all be proud of your involvement in making 2012 another memorable year for the Foundation and USAHEC.

SOLDIER EXPERIENCE GALLERY OPENS

Last November, USAHEC celebrated the Veterans Day holiday weekend with the opening of its eagerly anticipated Soldier Experience Gallery. Many guests were on hand to mark the occasion and to gain the first glimpses of USAHEC’s newest public attraction.

The 7,000-square foot interactive exhibit, located in the Visitor and Education Center, provides an in-depth look at the history of the U.S. Army as seen through the eyes of Soldiers. The gallery employs a variety of personal artifacts and archival material from USAHEC’s vast collection to tell a powerful story about the selfless service of American Soldiers. The exhibit is quickly becoming USAHEC’s defining internal feature and will remain a permanent fixture within the complex. If you still have not seen this impressive exhibit for yourself, please consider visiting soon.

A special thank you goes out to our corporate partners Walden Studios, Formations, Inc., and Orrstown Bank for serving as exhibit opening reception hosts and event sponsors. We also want to thank those of you who attended the exhibit opening and reception. Both the Foundation and USAHEC were delighted to share this historical milestone with so many supportive stakeholders. We hope you too are elated over this recent accomplishment and continue to help us in the future as we work to expand the Visitor and Education Center.

2013 SPECIAL EVENT NEWS

Save the Date(s)! The Foundation is pleased to announce a new twist on an old favorite. For 2013, we have decided to host not one...but two dinner events and will be having each of them at USAHEC. The first dinner, linked to the Army’s 238th birthday, is new for us and is scheduled for Friday, June 21st. This event will honor American Soldiers, past and present. An RSVP form and additional information about the dinner can be found at the back of this newsletter.

The second event, our Sixth Annual Membership Dinner and Silent Auction, will be tied to the Veterans Day holiday weekend and is scheduled for Friday, November 8th. This evening will be dedicated to honoring our supporters and annual award recipients.

We hope you are as anxious as we are and will be able to attend both functions! Preparations for both events are underway. We are currently seeking sponsorships for both dinners as well as silent auction items for our membership dinner. If you would like to make a donation to our silent auction or become an event sponsor, please contact Amanda Neal at (717) 258-1102 or ahcfadmin@armyheritage.org for more details.

In addition to these opportunities, we are excited to announce that the San Diego Army Advisory Council and their partners have offered to host a “Mad Run” in western Pennsylvania later this year to raise support for USAHEC and the Foundation. Mike Perry travelled to California earlier this month to spread the word about USAHEC and to finalize the agreement. Stay tuned if you are interested in participating or know of others who might be.

BUILD ON SUCCESS CAMPAIGN

As we embark on a new year, it is important to remember what is at stake and why your support is as important as ever. In the simplest of terms...we cannot advance the project without your assistance!

The federal government wisely invested in the resources and amenities onsite to preserve the precious memories entrusted to USAHEC’s care, but it is up to us to see that these stories are shared with the public. By agreement with the Army, Phase Two of the Visitor and Education Center (VEC) requires your private support to complete. Your participation helped us meet our first goal of beginning the VEC project and now we ask that you continue to work with us to finish the task.

We are well on our way to raising the $10 million required to build Phase Two. Though, we still need your support. Please consider renewing your support when you receive our next appeal letter in the coming weeks. Keep in mind that you may contribute to the Foundation’s Build on Success capital campaign at any time throughout the year by visiting our website or by sending your tax deductible gift to our office.

Education Program Update

In early March 1883, the Lady Franklin Bay Expedition, led by then Lieutenant Adolphus Greely, was in serious trouble. Stranded in the Arctic after heavy sea ice prevented a relief ship from reaching them, the members of the expedition faced harsh conditions and shortages of food. When the expedition’s doctor recommended that Greely restrict his Soldiers’ activities to conserve energy, Greely responded in writing:

Adolphus Greely, shortly after his rescue (U.S. Army Military History Institute)

This expedition was planned and fitted out solely for the purpose of increasing our knowledge of the Arctic regions. While I have the honor to command it, and as long as I am fit for duty, I shall continue to pursue the object in view... As an American soldier, I have yet to learn that any prospective dangers or accident should clear a man from pursuing to his utmost any end which in the line of one’s duty and instead prepare for a prospective retreat... Your recommendations will not be followed in this respect.¹

Greely briefly and eloquently sums up the role of the Soldier: to strive when others falter, to persevere when others fail, and to live a life defined by duty and service. Greely and his men did their duty, and although only six out of twenty-five men returned from the mission, this was a remarkable accomplishment for an expedition that became stranded in the north in an age when Arctic expeditions frequently ended in total disaster.

Greely’s story is compelling because it encompasses much of the Army Story. Greely was a Civil War veteran who, like the Army, distinguished himself in a wide variety of endeavors, in addition to combat. After his Arctic journeys, Greely served as Chief Signal Officer. In this role, he oversaw the maintenance of thousands of miles of telegraph wire that literally bound the nation together. Greely also helped create the National Weather Service, negotiated international treaties, and contributed to the adoption and development of wireless communications. His wife, Henrietta, was a consummate Army spouse. When the Lady Franklin Bay Expedition was given up for lost, she successfully lobbied for the relief expedition that ultimately saved her husband’s life.

In his later years, Greely rose to command the Army’s Pacific Division and commanded the relief efforts after the San Francisco earthquake of 1906. He retired in 1908, after 47 years of service. He received the Medal of Honor by special act of Congress shortly before his death in 1935.

Greely’s story illustrates the central importance of the Army to the history of our nation and the myriad of ways in which the Army has touched the lives of our citizens. His is just one of thousands of such stories preserved at the U.S. Army Heritage and Education Center. The Foundation’s Education Department is dedicated to sharing these stories so that the voices of the past will continue to speak to the future.

Our Veterans Oral History Program continues to be a central component of our efforts to educate students about the contributions of Soldiers to our nation’s history. More than fifty students in two local school districts attended training last fall and are currently interviewing Veterans to collect their stories for preservation. This program provides students with a unique opportunity to learn about and participate in the process of creating and preserving historical records and honoring Veterans while learning about the history of our nation.

Registration for the 2013 National History Day in Pennsylvania (NHD in PA) state contest is underway. The contest will take place at Cumberland Valley High School in Mechanicsburg, on May 3 and 4, 2013. More than 800 students will attend and compete for the opportunity to represent Pennsylvania at the National Contest in June at the University of Maryland. The contest requires the assistance of over 100 community volunteers. Foundation members interested in supporting this program are welcome to volunteer to judge student projects or to help manage the contest.

On March 10, 2013, the State Museum of Pennsylvania honored the 2012 NHD in PA state winners with the opening of the third annual National History Day in Pennsylvania showcase. In the presence of their families and friends, a re-enactor portraying Governor William Penn read the winners’ names and invited the public to view the projects on display.

The Foundation’s education programs offer members opportunities to get involved in activities at USAHEC through volunteer projects and internships for students. We continue our efforts to expand our educational offerings to include summer camps, lantern tours, film programs, and more. We welcome your inquiries and suggestions regarding our programs.

USAHEC Director’s Update

Colonel Matthew Dawson

On behalf of COL Dawson, the U.S. Army Heritage and Education Center (USAHEC) Director who is on temporary assignment at Central Command in Tampa, Florida, I would like to update you on the events and activities that have taken place at the Center since our last update in the fall of 2012.

This year has been a very busy one for the entire USAHEC staff as they have been faced with many challenges both large and small. The past several months have been filled with a high volume of tours and visits to the facility and steady increase in the use of the USAHEC conference facility spaces. The U.S. Army War College and Carlisle Barracks Garrison also continue to host events at our facility such as Christkindlesmarkt, the Academic Planning Conference, Great Decisions Lecture Series, and the Strategic Arts Film Festival to name a few. Other organizations have also held annual functions at our facility such as the Homer’s Guild Convention and the West Point Founder’s Day Dinner. USAHEC’s education programs and lectures continue to be popular events for the local community and U.S. Army War College students and faculty.

We have completed the reorganization of our operational infrastructure and are now much better positioned to support and educate both the U.S. Army and the public. We also made some facility infrastructure improvements to USAHEC, including upgrading the wireless capability throughout the USAHEC campus, construction of a new digital sign at the USAHEC entrance, and upgrades to the laboratory spaces within the conservation facility. These upgrades, which were supported by the Foundation, allow us to continue to support the needs of our visitors and preserve the historical collections for future visitors, ensuring the history of the U.S. Army is able to be told for generations.

We continue our support to the Special Forces Warrant Officer Training Course with specialized training in the history of firearms and armament, as well as a staff ride to Gettysburg, as part of their Army course of instruction. This year, USAHEC hosted the Military History Detachment training course. This course was conducted in conjunction with the U.S. Army Reserves and the Center of Military History. History Detachment officers were given training on how to collect historical information. Those trained will then deploy to support historical collection operations in Afghanistan. Rounding out USAHECs educational offerings in December, USAHEC and USAWC screened the documentary film “Flat Daddy,” by director Nara Garber for a very appreciative audience that included Soldiers’ families and veterans. In November and January, the Pennsylvania Cable Network (PCN) filmed two segments on the Soldier Experience Gallery with Museum Director, Jack Leighow, for a broadcast about USAHEC. It has aired at different times throughout the winter and will continue into the summer. USAHEC once again held Re-enactor Recruitment Day in the VEC multipurpose rooms. This event continues to “sell out”, with re-enactors on a waiting list to participate and more than 400 visitors attending the event. Finally, as part of our “Winter Doldrums” programming, we hosted a workshop/lecture style event with the Paper Modelers Club titled “Modeling Military History in Paper.” The USAHEC staff was impressed by the turnout of more than 225 participants who wanted to learn about this very delicate method of interpreting military history.

This year has not been without its challenges. The USAHEC team has cancelled Army Heritage Days for 2013. Budgetary... restrictions in the Department of Defense and the Department of the Army have forced constraints on events and outreach activities. The USAHEC team is grateful for all of the support the public has shown for this event, and we are excited to start planning for 2014's Army Heritage Days soon. USAHEC will continue planning for other smaller events, and the team encourages everyone to check our website often. Lectures, workshops, and living historian meet-and-greets are just some of this summer's planned activities.

Despite the budgetary challenges USAHEC is facing, we are still performing our mission of "Telling the Army Story...one Soldier at a time," as we will be expanding the Army Heritage Trail with the addition of a Korean War Era M46 Patton Tank. The tank will be painted in the "Tiger" paint scheme used by the 6th Medium Tank Battalion. We expect our newest acquisition to be delivered soon, and an exhibit centered around it to be completed by July. The USAHEC team is also working hard to add an M2 Bradley Fighting Vehicle to the Current Operations exhibit on the Army Heritage Trail. We hope to take possession of this vehicle in the next four to six months. Finally, we will be opening a new Art Gallery featuring the art of Carl Holmstrom, who was held in a German POW camp. We will also be changing the Civil War exhibit within the Soldier Experience Gallery to reflect actions and battles during 1863. Both exhibits will open on 7 June 2013. In the fall of 2013, we look forward to hosting New York City's Nina Talbot and her art exhibit of Soldier Stories.

USAHEC continues to be an exciting and engaging place to work and visit, as we expand and refocus our mission to serve Soldiers, the Army, our Veterans, and the visiting public. We continue to serve as an excellent resource for researchers and a state-of-the-art venue for conferences, to provide high quality educational programs for children and adults, and to grow as a source of information for the Army and units looking for training. We continue to value our partnership with the Army Heritage Center Foundation as we move toward the next phases of development for the USAHEC campus.

All my best, V/R

LTC Chris Lefjedal
Deputy Director, USAHEC

USAHEC Collection Update

USAHEC has continued to expand its collections. Below is a sample of some of the collections that have been added in the last six months:

Mr. Virgil Heidbrink - USAHEC recently received his World War II correspondence collection. After growing up in Iowa, Mr. Heidbrink was drafted into the Army where he served in medical units. He was drafted in early 1944. An April 1944 letter sent to him by his aunt, Myrtle Dittmer, states: "Well, you are in the army & hope you like it." The correspondence continues through his training with the 67th Medical Training Battalion and assignment to the 172nd General Hospital. The 172nd is where Hedbrink would serve the majority of his time. The 172nd was assigned to the China, Burma, and India Theater during the last stages of the war until it was inactivated on April 30, 1946.

Most of the correspondence was written to him by his parents, his sister Ruth, and other family members. There are, however, 22 letters written by Heidbrink during his Army service and sent to various family members. Heidbrink's correspondence to his family gives a vivid picture of what it was like to serve in India and China. Writing a letter to his parents and sister Ruth from China on August 5, 1945, Heidbrink states that "the last few days have been rainy and cool, and can it rain. The roofs of almost all of the hospital buildings leak something frightful."

He returned to the United States as a Master Sergeant in the spring of 1945. After he was discharged, Heidbrink returned to Ireton, Iowa.

Mrs. Nancy Grimme - Civil War correspondence from CPT James H. Latshaw, who served with the 2nd Division, 8th Army Corps. The collection contains five letters. Four of the letters are related to action in Northern Virginia around the time of the Gettysburg campaign in 1863 and the fifth letter was written in Frederick, Maryland awaiting discharge in 1864.

The letter from June 25, 1863 is probably the most dramatic. It was written shortly after the Second Battle of Winchester. Latshaw is writing his sister from Bedford, Pennsylvania. In the letter, Latshaw describes how most of the brigade was at Harpers Ferry while he was with some of the brigade near...continued on page 8
Bedford. "We cannot get to them now. The Rebels have cut off our communications and we will remain with this portion of Genl. Milroy's command till we all get together again."

The commander of the 2nd Division, 8th Corps was MG Robert H. Milroy. During the spring of 1863, Milroy's forces held Winchester, Virginia. Latshaw's May 17, 1863 correspondence to his sister was written from Winchester. During the early days of the Gettysburg campaign, Milroy was confident that his forces and fortifications could hold Winchester. Milroy's forces, however, were overwhelmed by the Second Corps, Army of Northern Virginia commanded by LTG Richard S. Ewell. On June 15, 1863, Milroy escaped out of Winchester with his staff. Latshaw was one of those fortunate not to be captured. The Confederates captured 3,000 of Milroy's men as well as all of his artillery and 300 supply wagons.

His correspondence would continue through 1863 and into 1864. Information copied from the family bible indicates that CPT James H. Latshaw died on February 17, 1865 from "chronic dysentery contracted in the service of his country." CPT Latshaw was buried with honors at the National Cemetery in Pittsburgh.

SPC Geoffrey Ives - Mr. Ives has donated many items in the past and continues to find good material related to his service in Iraq with the 1st Cavalry Division. His latest group of material includes digital photographs taken while in Iraq, as well as material related to his recovery after being injured in Iraq. These artifacts include a "Track Suit" and quilt issued to Soldiers at Landstuhl Army Hospital in Germany. SPC Ives also donated the Combat Vehicle Crewman's Coveralls he was wearing when he painted the 1st Cav Division mural at the FARP in Al-Taji. SPC Ives was a Fuel Specialist (92F) with the 3/5 Platoon, 615th ASB, 4th BDE, 1st Cav Division during OIF III.

BG John D. Howard - After Action Reports relating to BG (Ret.) Howard's service with the 6th Airborne Battalion Vietnamese Airborne Division in 1972. These reports from late in the Vietnam War are a great addition to our holdings on the events of that conflict. They also serve as an informational source on how the U.S. Army has conducted joint training in the past, much as we are currently involved in Iraq and Afghanistan. General Howard related the story of how these copies of AARs got preserved...when he was packing up his office to rotate back to the United States, he was advised to destroy the copies. but seeing the historical value of these reports, he retained the copies with him until he turned them over to USAHEC.

Ms. Patricia S. Mood - Early Tanker Corps related materials, photographs, letters, a diary, and a uniform. The items are from PFC John S. Mood's service during WWI. He was a medic attached to the 303rd Battalion Tank Corps, Company A. His photographs show early ambulances and camp scenes from Camp Meade, Maryland. The uniform has a very early pieced together armored division triangle patch on the sleeve.

Mr. James Olinkiewicz - COL Spencer Cosby's papers while attached to France during WWI. The donation includes official French reports, COL Cosby's reports to Higher Headquarters regarding the employment of new technology along the western front, information regarding troop strengths, battle reports, and COL Cosby's first person reports after touring battlefields of the Marne, including photographs he took while at the front.

Gift from the Omar Bradley Foundation - the scrapbook of Lt. "Ray" Jackson of Company I, 7th Regiment, Arizona National Guard, who saw service on the Mexican Border. Included in the scrapbook is a rare image of the use of motorcycles as platforms for machine guns, artillery firing, and rifle practice from shallow trenches.

The Historic Preservation Trust of Berks County - transferred the Paymaster's Ledger belonging to Major Nathan S. Brinton of Baltimore, Maryland from December 1861 to September 1865 and his accounts book from August 1861. Major Brinton was traveling from Cairo, Illinois with other paymasters and a guard from the 9th Wisconsin Regiment aboard the Steamer Ruth, when a fire broke out which consumed all of their paperwork and money. An inquiry ruled the cause of the blaze was sabotage by Confederate sympathizers.
