

Army Heritage Center Foundation

Update

Fall 2022 Newsletter

Letter from the President & CEO, AHCF

Why is the mission of the U.S. Army Heritage and Education Center (USAHEC) so important, and why does the Foundation seek to grow the Center and its programs? The most significant reason -- we want to help preserve our Army's and its Soldiers' history and make that history available for the public.

Why is this important? I will let a letter we recently received from a son of a WWII veteran explain.

"A few months before COVID hit, I was fortunate enough to utilize the library you have there at the Army Heritage Center, I drove 105 miles that day. You had one of the few remaining copies of Unit History 283rd Field Artillery Battalion which I was able to go through during my visit.

I never knew who my father was, long story, given a false name, and worse. It took me until I was 55 years old to crack the case. It was at your library where I was able to open that Unit History book and see for the first time the face of my father, a Sgt in the 283rd FABN. It was a unit where there were a majority of Pennsylvanians, a few hundred, who were together for 3 ½ years. Since then, I have received papers and photos, and his casket flag, from a cousin I never knew, lots of letters and memorabilia from the unit, war photos etc. But, it was in that book where I learned my father appropriated turkeys for Thanksgiving 1944 for the unit north of the Ardennes during the Battle of the Bulge.

Also, with the help of the other names of servicemen in that book, I was able to talk to two men in their 90s who served with my father in the FABN. One told me my father was guarding prisoners one day when General Patton drove up, and a lot more. I was able to find out my father looked for me and was a good man. I got a commemorative paver at your facility as my father didn't have anyone to do that for him 30 years ago when he passed, a memorial, which isn't far from where he was in boot camp during the war."

I can give no better explanation why USAHEC's and the Foundation's missions are so important to the Army, Veterans, and their families.

The unit history of the 283rd Field Artillery Battalion came into the USAHEC collection through a book collection donation through our Foundation. Our staff often works with donors to facilitate donations into the USAHEC collections. Have military history books and looking for a home for them? We accept donations of used military history books, which we then process for transfer into the USAHEC collection, as appropriate, or sell in our Museum Store.

Need a reason to visit? On November 5th, the Foundation will host its 15th Annual Membership and Recognition Dinner. Our program this year will recognize with our Living Legend Award Command Sergeant Major (Retired) Cindy Pritchett. She was a trailblazer for Soldiers who are female. Some her notable assignments where she was the first included the Command Sergeant Major at the Combined Arms Center, Fort Leavenworth and as the Command Sergeant Major for Combined Armed Forces Afghanistan.

Our Boots on the Ground Awardee will be the Pease Greeters who have since 2005, hosted servicemembers transiting Pease International Airport enroute to or returning from overseas deployments. Finally, we will recognize long serving board member, Mr. Joel B. Hudson, for his service on the Board of Directors of the Foundation and his service with the Army culminating with his appointment as Administrative Assistant to the Secretary of the Army.

Since 2018, the Foundation has sponsored ROTC staff rides to support commissioning requirements. Pritzker Military Foundation has provided generous support of the program. Cadets also visit USAHEC to learn how the Center can support them and their future units. Bowie State University (ROTC Cadets on their staff ride pictured on the right) is one of the 23 schools we sponsored in 2022.

Please continue to support us as we help USAHEC “engage, inspire, and inform the Army, the American people, and our global partners with a unique and enduring source of knowledge and thought.” Call us or visit our website at

FN AMERICA PRESENTS TO U.S. ARMY WAR COLLEGE INTERNATIONAL FELLOWS

On August 3rd a team from our corporate sponsor, FN America, came to Carlisle to present their product line at the U.S. Army Heritage and Education Center.

This event was split into three sessions, the first was open to local and state law enforcement agencies, which allowed our partner FN America to show their products that are tailored to law enforcement agencies.

The second and third sessions of the event were geared toward the seventy-eight international fellows who are studying at the U.S. Army War College this year.

These two sessions allowed FN America to introduce their latest weapons and technology to members of foreign militaries, while also fulfilling academic requirements for the International Fellows, who are required to learn about free market economies, supply chains, and logistics as part of their education at the U.S. Army War College.

The event was well received by everyone who attended the sessions. The FN America representatives were thrilled with the opportunity to present their products to a new audience, and the International Fellows were pleased with a fun and interactive way to explore both FN America's amazing product line and to learn more about how America's free market economy keeps prices low, while maintaining high production standards and quality products.

The Foundation would like to thank FN America for partnering with us on this highly successful event. We are looking forward to working with the amazing team from FN on this program next year.

UPCOMING PANEL DISCUSSION: U.S. WOMEN SOLDIERS: FROM WAC TO WARRIOR AT THE AUSA 2022 ANNUAL MEETING AND EXPOSITION

Instead of hosting a booth at the Annual AUSA Meeting & Exposition, the Foundation is focusing its efforts on leading an exciting panel discussion during the AUSA event. On the evening of October 11th, the Foundation will host a panel discussion highlighting the evolution of female soldiers from the last days of the Women's Army Corp in the 1970s to current operations where female soldiers are taking active roles in combat operations. This underexplored topic will feature SGM Julie Guerra, USA, the Sergeant Major for the U.S. Army Deputy Chief of Staff for Intelligence; SGT Diane Barker, USA, member of the last WAC class to graduate from Fort McClellan; and COL Jeri Graham, USA Ret., former Chief Nurse of Walter Reed and Hospital Commander at Fort Leonard Wood.

The Foundation is excited to share the stories and experiences of these soldiers as they discuss the evolution of women's roles in the United States Army, which allows us to continue to fulfill our mission of "Telling the Army Story... One Soldier at a Time."

LAUNCH OF OUR MONTHLY GIVING SOCIETY

In 1777, General George Washington assigned Captain Isaac Coren to Washingtonburg (Carlisle Barracks), Pennsylvania with the task of setting up a school to teach "Laboratory Arts" to American Artillery Officers. In many ways, Captain Coren was the first instructor at the Army's first school.

To honor the contributions of Captain Coren in the war effort and to educate Army Officers, we have named our Monthly Giving Society The Coren Society.

The Coren Society honors those who have shown steadfast support for the Foundation, our mission to preserve the memories of the Soldiers that have served the United States, and our partnership with the U.S. Army Heritage and Education Center (USAHEC).

Members of the Society will be recognized in our Annual Report and with an Annual Commemorative Gift depending on the level of your monthly commitment.

For more information on becoming a member of the Coren Society, please contact the Foundation office or visit our website.

SOLDIERS WALK – HONORING A VETERAN'S SERVICE

Soldiers Walk at USAHEC is the perfect place to honor the military service of yourself, a loved one, or an ancestor. Located prominently along the walkway leading to the U.S. Army Heritage and Education Center, Soldiers Walk is open to Veterans of all eras and branches of service.

Your donation will not only create a lasting commemoration to a patriot's military service, but also helps to fund the continued construction of the U.S. Army Heritage and Education Center.

In addition to your brick, you will also receive a certificate suitable for framing. For more information on our commemorative brick program, please visit our website or call the Foundation office.

Education Program Update

The Education Department was busy during the spring and summer seasons, successfully concluding the National History Day in PA program, hosting the Veterans Café, and executing summer camp and leadership programs. We now move into the fall with a full slate of programs to engage students and the public as we continue "Telling the Army Story ... One Soldier at a time."

The 2022 NATIONAL HISTORY DAY IN PENNSYLVANIA (NHD in PA) State Contest took place May 7 and 8 at the University of Scranton. This was our first in person event in three years and more than 450 students and over 100 support staff participated. Sixty-three (63) students qualified for the National Contest, held virtually again this year in early June. Once again, Pennsylvania students distinguished themselves, bringing home a total of six medals including one national championship and two special awards.

Students work together to build a free-standing shelter for their team using nothing but packing paper and packaging tape.

MG Hill shares leadership advice with the students enrolled in the Youth Leadership Academy.

Through July and early August, dozens of middle school and high school students attended the SOLDIER EXPERIENCE ADVENTURE CAMP. Set in a reenacting environment based on the late Cold War training manual, the program challenges participants to think on their feet, exercise leadership, work as a team, and pay attention to details through a series of games and scenarios. The program also provides leadership training and experience for older campers, who have opportunities to serve as Counselors-in-Training.

In August, we offered our first ever session of the YOUTH LEADERSHIP ACADEMY thanks to generous support from the G.B. Stuart Charitable Foundation. Students attended a week-long program that introduced them to the fundamentals of leadership through a series of classroom activities and lectures, games, drills, and leadership-reaction course activities. Guest speakers included LTC (R) Charles Payne, COL (R) Steven Kidder, COL (R) Frank Hancock, and a special visit from MG David Hill, Commandant of the U.S. Army War College.

Finally, we also hosted a POW/MIA DAY picnic and ceremony on September 16. This program, as well as the Veterans' Café and other Veteran focused events are made possible by our sponsors: Hoffman Funeral Home, Humana, and United Campers spread out for a round of "Capture the Chicken", a version of capture the flag that emphasizes teamwork, decision making, attention to detail, and leadership.

Concordia.

The VETERANS' CAFÉ has returned to in person events to provide opportunities for Veterans, friends, and family to meet to share their stories. Our annual D-Day event was well attended, as was our Memorial Day Watchfire. Our upcoming events include a breakfast at 8 AM on October 20, and a Veterans Day Watchfire at 5 PM on November 10. Both programs will be held at USAHEC.

Watchfires ceremonies evoke military traditions and provide opportunities for Veterans, friends, and family to gather to reminisce with old acquaintances and honor and remember those who are no longer with us.

Jeff Hawks, Director of Education and Veterans' Outreach for the Foundation, continues to make public presentations, speaking at local nursing homes and hosting a booth at the Veterans' of Foreign Wars national convention. On September 29th, he moderated a panel on the Cuban Missile Crisis for the National Archives in Washington, DC.

The VETERANS ORAL HISTORY PROGRAM (VOHP) is returning to a face-to-face format for the 2022-23 school year. Zoom interviews remain an option for Veterans who live too far away to travel. As always, we are looking for Veterans willing to share their stories. Anyone interested in being interviewed should contact Education Director Jeff Hawks at 717-258-1102 or eddirector@armyheritage.org.

Our TEACHER WORKSHOPS continued with our first fully hybrid workshop on the Vietnam War in May. Teachers attended both in person and via Zoom for a program that featured presentations from guest lecturers and Vietnam Veterans. In October, we will host another hybrid workshop on the evolution of nuclear strategy.

WEBINAR/LECTURE PROGRAM. The Foundation has entered its second full year of online (ZOOM) based programs. Over the past year, we have continued to host twice monthly lectures at 7pm that reach both a national and international audience. We have accomplished this with the support of historians and academics across the country. Thank you to those who have presented and viewed our programs.

If you wish to view past webinars, they are available on the Foundation's YouTube Channel at <https://www.youtube.com/user/AHCFoundation/videos>.

Want to know about our future programs? Sign up for our emails on the Foundation's homepage at www.armyheritage.org.

THANK YOU TO OUR PROGRAM SPONSORS. Our education programs would not be possible without the support of our donors. We would like to thank our current sponsors: Universal Health Services of Delaware, M&T Bank, First National Bank, Hoffman Funeral Home, Humana, United Concordia, G.B. Stuart Charitable Foundation, and Avalon Insurance for their support.

USAHEC Director's Update – Geoffrey Mangelsdorf

"USAHEC Changed my life!" Samantha blurted out one day, near the end of her internship. Clearly, we made a good impression. Samantha's experience at the Center caused her to view public service in a whole new light and reshaped her graduate school plans. It was fulfilling to know we played a positive role in her future, because inspiring people is a fundamental part of our mission.

We recently embarked on a multi-year endeavor to upgrade our exhibits for just that reason. We are adding interactive kiosks that link to our extensive digital holdings and enrich the in-person experience. It also enables an expanded timeline of history so we can tell a more complete Army story. We just unveiled an augmented reality Sherman Tank, tied to the one on our outside trail, that engages and inspires audiences in new ways.

Speaking of the trail, I'm excited about some other things we've done for our youngest visitors. We extensively renovated the Revolutionary War Redoubt this summer and replaced the defensive structures (palisades and abatis) with new logs using traditional techniques to give the Redoubt a fresh, period-appropriate look. The popular exhibit on the Army Heritage Trail reopened and is ready for exploration by patrons of all ages!

The Bradley Fighting Vehicle and M109A5 Self-propelled Howitzer are back at the Center after restoration at Letterkenny Army Depot. Skilled Army Civilian workers meticulously refurbished the vehicles, fully restoring them to period authentic patterns. We recently added an M577 Command Post Carrier and an M113 Armored Personnel Carrier, as part of a donation arranged through the Army Heritage Center Foundation.

The project to digitize the archives connects our Army to a global audience. Patron-centered and digitally enabled systems increase discoverability and accessibility to the collection—which stimulates a human desire for authenticity and visiting Carlisle. Our work so impressed the House Armed Services Committee that they are pressuring the other services to develop similar digital systems—which says much about our collective success.

Army Heritage Days is back after a hiatus of almost three years! Thousands of visitors came to the Center in mid-September to meet reenactors in authentic uniforms and gear portraying all periods of our Army's lineage. The human interaction truly brought history alive for learners of all ages. We will be holding another Army Heritage Days October 15 and 16 focusing on Armor and Artillery.

We continue to expand opportunities to engage, inspire, and inform audiences about their Army—both physically and virtually. Molly Bompante highlights more of our digital transformation in the following pages.

We fundamentally believe in learning at the Center, which we can only do with your support. Your generosity makes an enormous difference. Come visit us soon and see the results first-hand—and let us know how we are doing. Thanks. -Geoff

INTRODUCING CULTURECONNECT: A DIGITAL PLATFORM TO DRIVE PATRON ENGAGEMENT, LEARNING, AND ORGANIZATIONAL REACH

By Molly Bompane, USAHEC Curator and Exhibits Branch Chief

USAHEC'S DIGITAL FUTURE: BUILDING CAPACITY WITH NEW TECHNOLOGIES

Over the past several years, the U.S. Army Heritage and Education Center (USAHEC) has made significant changes as part of our modernization effort. During that time, we have aligned our vision with the strategic objectives of the U.S. Army War College (USAWC) and reevaluated our role within the archives, museum, and history worlds. We see a future where much of our user activity takes place in a highly decentralized virtual environment. As much as we desire to have every Army user and every American come to Carlisle, Pennsylvania, to visit the Center, that is not possible. Therefore, we must expand our reach and deepen our impact with our users and become a Patron Centered – Digitally Enabled organization. We also determined that to stay relevant in a highly competitive environment, we must:

- Anticipate the evolving needs and requirements of our users.
- Elevate digital experiences to improve services and online assistance.
- Develop and use our digitized resources to create different types of products for all of our audiences.
- Connect with and deliver our virtual exhibits, programs, and collections to a global audience.

We also saw a need for a space between our website and USAHEC's expansive digital collections to curate and deliver digital content which will better aid the discovery of both existing and future collection items for our users. What followed was a digital transformation at the Center.

A cross-organizational, collaborative team researched and tested different digital platforms and content systems that expand and enhance the delivery of our collections, exhibits, and programming. In the end, the team recommended the acquisition of the CultureConnect platform for fiscal year 2022.

WHY CULTURECONNECT

CultureConnect enables museums, archives, and libraries to develop and deliver digital programming and content. We can create the content once and then publish it anywhere: across the web, mobile applications, in galleries, on kiosks, touch screens, and social media. Its innovative platform for creating and managing digital and mobile interactives also supports multi-media from audio, video, and image zooming to 3D objects and animations. We can now engage our audiences onsite here at USAHEC, online or at their homes, on different devices, anywhere in the world.

CULTURECONNECT: WHAT CAN IT DO, WHAT CAN WE DO?

The Minister of Defence of Northern Macedonia, Slavjanka Petrouska, explores USAHEC's Desert Storm online exhibition, powered by CultureConnect, with staff members during a visit in July.

Within the cultural heritage profession, it is the expectation of the professional of today and tomorrow to not only be able to preserve, interpret, and make available historical collection materials, but to also develop and disseminate digital products about the collections, while connecting with a global audience.

Last fall, USAHEC's cross-organizational digital development team set out on a new digital adventure working with the CultureConnect team. We began with a rigorous training schedule to learn about the platform and how to develop experiences. We have remained engaged with the CultureConnect product team as the platform continues to evolve and grow in order to implement new features.

The CultureConnect platform is designed for non-technical staff and does not require an IT team or special coding skills. Through CultureConnect's enterprise license, USAHEC staff members have the ability to design, develop, and implement a cohesive, consistent, and rich virtual presence. The interface design is modern and fully customizable, and the platform includes a variety of layouts, templates, configurations, and design controls that enable the staff to be creative and develop new and engaging digital products.

The CultureConnect platform and product suite includes:

- Online exhibitions
- Mobile guides
- Advanced gallery interactives
- Digital labels
- Group and individual Tours
- Virtual Programming
- Distance Learning
- Scavenger Hunts and Games
- Visitor/Patron Surveys

SO, WHAT HAVE WE DONE?

ONLINE EXHIBITIONS:

The team applied an iterative approach to exploring the capabilities of CultureConnect. In Phase One, the team experimented with the development of different experiences, applications, and design templates for creating online exhibitions, mobile guides, in-gallery interactives, educational programming, and customer surveys. Our initial goal was to translate all the existing exhibits in our rotational galleries into a digital environment. By developing an online version of our exhibits, we are not only preserving and archiving these exhibits, but we have now found that exhibits can continue to grow and evolve. We are finding that our physical exhibit space is just the beginning of a visitor's experience and that we can also enhance an existing gallery's content. The online version of the exhibit allows us to explore content and concepts to a much greater degree and allows us deeper engagement and connection with our patrons and global audience. Our online exhibitions currently include: This Will Not Stand: The U.S Army's Road to Victory in the Persian Gulf War; Where in the Hell is Korea? Warfare in the Land of Sorrow; The Army Heritage Trail; and Carved in Stone, Cast in Bronze: Commemorative Sculpture of the Civil War Era.

Our Desert Storm exhibit, This Will Not Stand, was our first complete online exhibition. That exhibit was developed to enable any visitor worldwide to "visit" and see our physical gallery space and to enable enhanced discovery of the storyline, historical resources, and artifacts. One of the very exciting features of the platform is that we can freely connect to USAHEC's extensive digital holdings in Arena at both the collection and item level. We are also able to make documents and resources available within the platform for download. During the development process, the Desert Storm experience was sent to our partners within and outside of the Army for feedback both in usability and content. With that user feedback, we are better able to understand and improve content development and delivery.

Above: A screenshot from USAHEC's online Desert Storm exhibition, This Will Not Stand. To explore the exhibit, scan the QR code or visit <https://dsds.usa.yourcultureconnect.com/>.

MOBILE GUIDES AND WAYFINDING:

The CultureConnect development team also developed different mobile guides. A mobile guide allows our visitors to experience enhanced content throughout our campus on their own devices, such as a smart phone or tablet. After scanning a QR code or downloading USAHEC's application from either the Google Play or Apple Stores, they can access enhanced content. Wayfinding and navigation include GPS, interactive maps, and interactive modules, which allows USAHEC to incorporate interactive elements for user engagement and two-way communication. Some additional interactive tools that we are developing are scavenger hunts and games, hotspots, emoji responses and image galleries for voting, quizzes, and content ratings. These interactive elements immerse our visitors in a cultural experience that rewards their exploration.

The most comprehensive mobile guide that the team developed in Phase One was USAHEC's Army Heritage Trail. It includes an expansive interactive map, hot spots, and enhanced content.

Above: A screenshot from USAHEC's Army Heritage Trail's online exhibition. To explore the exhibit, scan the QR code or visit <https://trail.usa.yourcultureconnect.com/>.

Above: Scan the QR code to visit our Army Heritage Trail interactive map or visit <https://trail.usa.yourcultureconnect.com/> and select trail map.

IN-GALLERY INTERACTIVES:

USAHEC's CultureConnect development team also created different in-gallery interactives. These interactives give us the ability to enhance content in our galleries and enable us to keep the content fresh and expansive. Through animated touchpoints like hot spots and digital labels, we can incorporate layers of rich-media content and allow for deep dives into content and artifacts within our galleries. Through this intuitive design and navigation, we are not only able to incorporate rich information from the print and photo collections here at USAHEC, but can now include multi-media resources, such as audio and video.

One example of this feature is our new digital label for Medal of Honor Recipient Corporal Calvin P. Titus. By scanning a QR code under the famous painting of Titus scaling the wall during the Peking Rebellion, our visitors can hear him discuss the event through his oral history held here at USAHEC. Visitors can also watch a short video about the event as well.

THE PATH FORWARD:

CultureConnect elevates our current digital offerings, and this newfound capability provides a structure for curation and distribution of USAHEC products to audiences throughout the Army, USAWC, and the world. This sustainable and scalable technology platform will help us better understand our users and their needs.

As USAHEC's CultureConnect development team continues to learn and develop more digital discovery tools, we also realize that our digital future lies not only in the development and dissemination of these digital products and services, but in the ability to share this newly developed skill set and digital infrastructure. As we collaborate and share this digital infrastructure and learning across the Army, we will be able to empower other Army entities to follow suit. To this end, we are currently working with our colleagues such as 10th Mountain Division and Letterkenny Army Depot to develop prototypes of this concept.

In Phase Two of our implementation plan coming in fiscal year 2023, the team will also begin to explore other capabilities and offerings available through the CultureConnect platform. We will begin to look at how we gather and use analytical data to guide future content development and how we use these types of applications, experiences, and platforms. We will also be testing different ways to enhance USAWC's curriculum as well as the development of virtual programming and distance learning, to include live lectures and virtual events.

The team will also test the platform's tour capacity. Using CultureConnect, tour guides can now lead group tours and communicate with tour attendees through a handheld device.

This moves away from the traditional, closed-system hardware solutions of the past and now becomes a capability within our new and existing CultureConnect mobile guides.

CONCLUSION:

As a component of USAWC, USAHEC is increasingly focused on advanced initiatives that foster scholarship and support research about the U.S. Army and its operating environment. Digitally enabled operations are our future. We continually seek opportunities to develop concepts and capabilities that allow patrons to experience our collection firsthand by using new venues, mediums, and techniques.

To ensure that we are a place of choice for innovative research, analysis, collaboration, and education, both physically and virtually, implementing digital development tools like CultureConnect is key to our success. We believe studying the past is required to understand the present; and essential to projecting the future, and the Center continues to serve as an investment in the future and as a steward of our Army's heritage.
