

10th Mountain Division

The 10th Light Division (Alpine) was constituted on 10 July 1943, and activated five days later at Camp Hale, Colorado. On 6 November 1944, the division was redesignated the 10th Mountain Division. The division was one of the last divisions to enter combat not entering the fight as a unit until January 1945. The 10th Mountain Division was inactivated on 30 November 1945 at Camp Carson, Colorado.

Based on the April 1942 Table of Organization 7-131, a typical mountain infantry regiment consisted of a headquarters and band, a headquarters company, a service company, and three battalions. By late 1944 the organizational structure of the regiment had been revised with the elimination of the band.

Each of the three infantry battalions consisted of a headquarters and headquarters company, three rifle companies and a heavy weapons company. Within each regiment, the 1st Battalion consisted of Companies A through D, the 2d Battalion consisted of Companies E through H, and the 3d Battalion consisted of Companies I through M (there was no Company J), with Companies D, H and M being the heavy weapons companies.
